Jurnal Hukum dan Syariah

TERAKREDITASI SINTA 2

De Jure: Jurnal Hukum dan Syar'iah focuses on contemporary issues in the field of Islamic law in Indonesia and Muslim countries with gender, political, and human rights approaches. This journal provides insight into the contemporary dynamics of Islamic law by focusing on the question of how Islamic law adapts to various interests so that it becomes state law. This journal focuses on what Muslims actually do in order to accommodate Islamic law in a modern legal state. De Jure considers that Islamic law can be used as a basis or source for the formulation of modern state law today. Articles that make a more general theoretical or comparative contribution are preferable to those that focus narrowly on a particular society. Papers based on a single country or case should also address issues relevant to the implementation of Islamic law outside the country in question.
